At Touro’s New York Medical College, delivering excellent medical education is very important to us. So is Shabbos observance.

Dr. Jerry Frenkel, School of Medicine NYMC ‘17, during one of his clinical rotations

We are a national leader in education of doctors and healthcare professionals. Our medical school has an academic calendar respectful of Jewish observance as well as glatt kosher dining facilities, an on-site synagogue, a campus eruv and regular shiurim.

New York Medical College is taking the lead with its partner hospitals in founding and promoting Shomer Shabbos residency training positions. These slots allow accommodation of Jewish observance with the understanding that primacy is always given to the needs of our patients.

At Westchester Medical Center in Valhalla, New York, Shomer Shabbos residency positions are offered in Internal Medicine, Pathology, Pediatrics*, Psychiatry, Radiology and Surgery. Located in Westchester County, near Monsey, New Square, New Rochelle, Riverdale, White Plains and Queens.

*All of these residency positions are offered via the Shomer Shabbos option of the National Resident Matching Program (NRMP) except pediatrics at Westchester Medical Center which is a NRMP program that accommodates Shomer Shabbos trainees.
